

Brief History of the Barangay

Way back in 1930s, this place is a jungle. A territory of the Ilongots and Aetas. Abundant species of wildlife plants and animals are found around the area. Hunters named this place as KABUGBUGAN because large varieties of rattan were remarkably grown anywhere around this place.

Seven families from Umingan, Pangasinan were the first settlers to include the families of ANASTACIO BELJANO, HERMOGENES ANCHETA, VICENTE COSTALES, VALENTIN COSTALES, FRANCISCO CABRERA, SIPING CABRERA and SIMPLECIO CAIREL. The beauty and richness of natural resources suitable for Agricultural has been disseminated that's why more settlers came in and this place became a Barrio named General Luna headed by Tenyente del Barrio SERAFINO ABRIN.

In 1966, General Luna was renamed into Barrio Burgos of the Municipality of Aglipay, Province of Nueva Vizcaya.

In 1970s, Cabarroguis was created as a Municipality and Burgos is one of its Barrio.

In 1972, Sitio Danlapan of Burgos was created as Barrio Villapena. This was the year when the Logging Company came and established a Sawmill called LUZON LOGGERS INCORPORATED. This sawmill contributes a big role in the development of this barangay.

In 1980, Sitio Hilltop was separated from Burgos and it was created as Barangay Gomez.

Because of the sawmill, Luna or Burgos became popular. When it comes to beautiful sceneries, there are some panoramic spots that can be develop into a tourist spot like the NAGBUKEL - a round shape hill composed of marble rocks (known as DIAGAY MARBLE), the SUSONG DALAGA renamed into BOOBA HILLS (with several caves and a vertical cave), the KIMMALUGONG HILL, a hat shape with natural water spring.
